Here's My Suggestion/Idea:

Get the movie "The 10th Kingdom"

Status (please circle one):

It looks like there's a mini-series called "The 10th Kingdom" – if that's what you're referring to, I passed it along to the person who orders films (and consults with the film faculty). If that's the correct film, please leave another suggestion or tell the person at the reference desk.

Thanks for the movie suggestion. We can't always accommodate movie requests, but we do our best!

Here's My Suggestion/Idea:

I would love for the library coffee shop to open by 5! All my grad classes start at 6, so there isn't any option on campus for tea before my class.

Status (please circle one): Graduate Student

We've had other people ask that the coffee shop open earlier as well – we're working with Greenberry's to make our open hours as efficient as possible. At the moment we cannot have it schedule to open before 6, but if the barista is there before 6 and ready to go, you can certainly ask for a drink.

We will continue to evaluate the hours and try to find something that works for most people. Thank you for letting us know your preference!

Here's My Suggestion/Idea:

Have a cat! ☺

Status (please circle one): Graduate Student

For some people, a library cat would be a marvelous companion to either love us (we hope!) or avoid those who want their love the most (most likely scenario). There are actually libraries that do have cats – see: Kuzya, the bow-tie wearing Assistant Librarian at Novorossiysk Library in Russia.

Unfortunately, we can't have a cat for a two very good reasons. 1 – Some people are allergic (and they're just as important as our feline-loving patrons). 2 – We do close at certain points during the year and there would be no one to take care of our friend.

I will do my best to incorporate more cats in our advertisements and social media.
